Collas Crill Trust opens for business in Jersey

SEPTEMBER 2024

The Collas Crill group has enhanced its private client offering with the launch of a new trust company in Jersey.

Taking the same name as its Guernsey-based sister company, Collas Crill Trust will build on the group's established reputation and expertise in providing trust and corporate services to high-net-worth private clients.

Trust expert Siobhan Crick joins the Jersey team as Director of Client Services to develop the business, working alongside Katie Bonfrer, who joined the group in the summer as Group Managing Director of Collas Crill Trust and Corporate Services spanning Jersey, Guernsey and the Cayman Islands.

Katie Bonfrer said: 'Global expertise in private wealth lies at the heart of the Collas Crill group, both in terms of legal advisory and wealth management.

'Our aim with the new offering in Jersey is to provide bespoke solutions for a small number of ultra-high-net-worth families and individuals. By remaining boutique, we will be able to dedicate the highest levels of service to each and every client, with a director actively involved in and leading every structure. Clients tell us that it's this service-led, independent trustee model that they want to get back to – a model where advice is bespoke, staff turnover is low and families can form long-term relationships across generations with an experienced team of experts they know and trust.'

The group's trust and corporate services businesses now comprise Collas Crill Trust in Guernsey and in Jersey, and Collas Crill Corporate Services, which offers a range of corporate, regulatory and governance services in the Cayman Islands.
