Collas Crill recognised in Chambers HNW Guide 2026

JULY 2026

The launch of the Chambers HNW Guide 2026 sees a number of new and promoted rankings for Collas Crill individuals, while our Cayman private client and trusts team has been officially ranked for the first time.

Collas Crill now has 10 lawyers ranked by Chambers in its HNW Guide. As a firm, Guernsey and Jersey have maintained their band 2 position, with Cayman ranked in band 3 this year.

Victoria Yates and Damian James have both been promoted to band 1 – Victoria within the offshore trusts and Damian in the offshore trusts litigation categories.

James Sheedy has been ranked for the first time in the HNW Guide at band 2 (offshore trusts litigation), Andrew Peedom, Ben Havard and Christian Hay have come in at band 3 (offshore trusts) with Fritha Ford acknowledged as 'up and coming' (offshore trusts litigation).

Angela Calnan has maintained her band 2 position with Cerisse Fisher and Elena Gogh maintaining their band 3 rankings (offshore trusts).

In addition to the rankings we – the firm and individual lawyers – received some excellent client feedback, with 'pragmatism', 'proactivity', 'client-centric', 'ability to handle complex matters across multiple practice areas', 'partner availability', 'going above and beyond for clients' and 'exceptional client service' highlighted multiple times.

This feedback, together with the increase in, and promotion of, individual rankings, demonstrates our capability and reputation in offshore private client and trusts – both within the non-contentious and contentious legal space.

Client feedback received

'With a broad team of experienced contentious and non-contentious lawyers, Collas Crill are well placed to handle complex and sophisticated matters seamlessly across a range of practice areas.'

'They are becoming a force within the Cayman Islands' private client industry. They're available, responsive and willing to fight for their clients.'
