

David O'Hanlon: Collas Crill lawyer sworn in as Guernsey Advocate

February 2018

Collas Crill partner David O'Hanlon was sworn in as a Guernsey Advocate today.

David is a senior member of Collas Crill's commercial Dispute Resolution team focusing on contentious and semi-contentious trust and internal company issues. David also has a wide experience of professional negligence as well as general commercial matters.

Collas Crill's head of Dispute Resolution, Christian Hay, said: "David is a very committed lawyer and a valuable part of our Dispute Resolution team. We are delighted to see David called as a Guernsey Advocate, reflecting his commitment to Guernsey and the firm."

David was previously admitted as a Solicitor of England and Wales in 2005 and joined Collas Crill in 2011. David successfully completed the Guernsey Bar Exams, and his studies at the University of Caen in 2017.

For more information please contact:

David O'Hanlon

Partner // Guernsey

t: +44 (0) 1481 734259 // e: david.ohanlon@collascrill.com

Christian Hay

Partner // Guernsey

t: +44 (0) 1481 734290 // e: christian.hay@collascrill.com