Collas Crill's commercial, residential and UK real estate practice in Guernsey has been listed in the top banding by legal directories Legal 500 and Chambers & Partners.

Described in Chambers & Partners as 'a premier firm' that provides 'excellent legal knowledge and sage commercial advice that is delivered promptly by a very knowledgeable team', the team was noted for some of its work highlights including advising on the sale of the Liberation Group worth £118 million and SigmaRoc's purchase of the Ronez Group.

One client said to Legal 500, 'I think their people skills are very impressive, and that they cut to the heart of the matter quickly and efficiently. They are an impressive team with a great reputation.'

Another client commented on the team's 'great technical ability in both offshore and UK property.'

Partners Chris Bound, Jason Green, Paul Nettleship and Michael Morris were all listed by the directories and senior associate Donald Millar was highlighted as a 'next generation lawyer', described by clients as 'excellent to work with'.

Jason Green, who heads up the team in Guernsey, said: "This is a fantastic accolade for our team to be ranked so highly in both directories.

"We are continuing to see an increase high value deals across the offshore and UK property markets and it doesn't look like this will be slowing down in 2018."
