Eprivateclient recognises top talent

JUNE 2024

Eprivateclient has recognised some of Collas Crill's top talent in its Crown Dependencies NextGen Leaders 2024 list.

Ben Havard, James Sheedy and Emma Taylor from the firm's Private Client and Trusts team have all been included in the list which includes nominees from within the private client advisory professions, covering private client tax, trust, dispute resolution and family lawyers, accountants, and trustees.

Factors taken into account include the reputation or performance of the company that the nominee works for, feedback from peers, trajectory of promotion/business development success and relative years of experience, and active involvement in promoting good organisational culture.

Group Managing Partner Jason Romer said: 'Congratulations to Ben, James and Emma. This is great recognition for them all individually and for the strength and depth of our private client teams at Collas Crill.'
